Serbia: Citizenship by Investment

Economic citizenship in Europe’s emerging destination
Key facts

Serbia is a landlocked country in Europe’s southeastern Balkans region. Serbia became a stand-alone sovereign republic in the summer of 2006 after Montenegro voted in a referendum for independence from the Union of Serbia and Montenegro.

18 Roman emperors were born on the territory of modern day Serbia. The most famous of them was definitely Constantine the Great, Roman emperor who declared Christianity as the official religion. Moreover, Serbia is home to one of 4 Roman capitals – the ancient city of Sirmium, today’s Sremska Mitrovica.

Belgrade, the capital, has been awarded as the City of the Future for Southern Europe 2006/07. It was chosen among the most developed cities in the region based on its economic potential, cost effectiveness, human resources, IT and telecommunications, transport, quality of life and FDI promotion.

With its outstanding location, a thriving real estate market, widely available healthcare institutions, outstanding international schools, and wide range of cultural and tourist attractions, Serbia is truly the right choice for foreign citizens.
